Description

Keeping employees safe at work is a fundamental requirement of the modern workplace. This is a shared responsibility for employees at all levels within the organisation. The CIV in WHS is designed for employees who work in a WHS role or for those looking for a career in WHS and enables them to provide leadership in WHS to other workers, including:

- Confidence and skills in applying WHS legislation to workplace situations
- Consultation skills with team and management
- Contributing to the organisation's WHS practices

Prerequisites

There are no formal prerequisites for this qualification however the Certificate IV in Work Health and Safety requires the learner to read, interpret and produce complex documents.

Recognition of Prior Learning

This qualification is an ideal extension for people who have completed HSR training, or who have extensive experience in WHS roles in the workplace, but no formal qualification. Contact us for more information about RPL options.
